Far From The Truth

NOTHING could be further from the truth than the allegations made in London yesterday that Hongkong is manufacturing rubber footwear by means of sweat labour for the purpose of under-cutting British manufacturers, and that the Colony is exporting to Britain rubber shoes made in China and Japan disguised as Hongkong products. Working conditions in our rubber shoe factories may not be ideal, but they are relatively high—far superior to anything which existed before the Pacific War; and production costs are anything but low. Typical of the loose thinking which characterises criticism of Hongkong is the suggestion that our rubber shoe manufacturers can use cheap raw materials obtained from areas other than the British Commonwealth and still benefit from Imperial Preference. The truth is that not only is it required that nearly 100 per cent of the raw materials shall be of Empire origin, but there is not the slightest chance of the Colony being allotted quotas unless these conditions are faithfully fulfilled. Similarly thoughtless and worthless is the accusation that Hongkong is re-exporting rubber shoes made in Japan and China as Colony products, claiming for them Imperial Preference. A like allegation was made some time ago about locally-made shirts which the Board of Trade proved to its satisfaction was entirely without foundation. For Hongkong to indulge in any such skulduggery would be suicidal to its own interests—it would bring about the official banning of Colony products to the British market. British manufacturers may be justified in fearing competition from Hongkong, but not for the reasons advanced in London yesterday.

The Soviet Veto

THE controversy aroused by General Eisenhower's criticism of Secretary of State Dean Acheson's foreign policy speech in January, 1950, excluding such mainland areas as Korea from the United States' defence perimeter, has led to the clearing up of another misconception. The impression is widespread that only the fortuitous absence of Mr Malik from the Security Council enabled action to be taken to oppose the aggression of the North Korean army five months after Mr Acheson's speech had allegedly given the Communists the go-ahead signal. After clearing up the disputed passage by quoting it in full, Mr Acheson went on to answer the argument that if the Soviet Government had not walked out of the Security Council his warning speech would have been of no value, because if the Soviet delegate had been present, he would have vetoed the proposed action. Mr Acheson says this idea is based on an error. The responsibility of the members of UN to take collective action does not disappear because of a veto. He quoted Article 51, on the inherent right of individual or collective self-defence if an armed attack occurs, and he added that if the Council's resolution had been voted, a special session of the General Assembly could, and would, have made the same recommendations for decisive action. There have been hints that this procedure may in the end be used to secure the admission of candidates like Italy, Japan and others who have been vetoed, but who should be members.

CONSERVATIVES BUILD UP BIG LEAD IN JAPANESE ELECTIONS

Premier Yoshida's Candidates In Front

TOKYO, Oct. 2. Japan has cast an overwhelming vote of confidence for the Conservative government that led it into a military alliance with America and isolation from its Communist neighbours.

A conservative landslide in returns from yesterday's first national election since the occupation swept Premier Shigeru Yoshida's Liberal Party back into power and buried Communism as an overt political force in Japan.—United Press.

Ship's Uninvited Guest

Stateless Person Who Cannot Land At HK Or Macao

A unique and knotty problem is confronting the Wo Cheung Fat Shipping Company, owners of the Lee Hong which flies the British flag and is on the Hongkong-Macao run. It concerns a Stateless person, whose nationality is either Russian or Polish, who has been shuttled between Hongkong and Macao since the 18th of last month because he cannot obtain permission to disembark at either colony.

He first arrived in Macao from Canton during September and was given a week by the immigration authorities to leave the Portuguese Colony.

He was found on board the Lee Hong after she had cleared for Macao in the early hours of September 18. He had apparently taken advantage of the fact that a cabaret operates on the ship while in Macao and thus gained admission to the Lee Hong.

Asked for his passage ticket and passport when he was discovered aboard following the ship's departure for Hongkong, the individual admitted he possessed neither.

When the Lee Hong arrived in Hongkong the immigration authorities were informed of his position. The man, however, was refused permission to land, and he had to be taken back to Macao.

There he was also told he could not disembark, and since then the man has been living aboard the Lee Hong.

He is apparently penniless and is being provided with free meals on the ship.

The situation is likely to become further complicated by the fact that the Lee Hong is due to enter dry dock this month, and the owners are in a quandary as to what action is to be taken about their uninvited guest.

War Minister Taken To Task

LONDON, Oct. 1. The Conservative Evening Standard said in an editorial today that the Cabinet should take urgent measures to undo the damage done to Anglo-Egyptian relations by the War Minister's contradictory remarks about British policy in the Suez Canal Zone.

The editorial said: "Mr Anthony Head has now been tested and he has not passed. His error may have been unthinking, but it cannot be forgotten."

"However human his slip, he was standing in a place where slips are generally fatal."

It said that for the British Cabinet it became a task "of the very first urgency" to do what might be done to mitigate the damage.

"The House of Commons must inquire into these events and must receive full explanations. And it should not hesitate, if the evidence remains unaltered, to make an inexorable demand for Head's head."—United Press.

Terrorism In Kenya

NEW EMERGENCY MEASURES

NAIROBI, Oct. 1. The Kenya Legislative Council today completed approval of emergency measures to combat the Mau Mau, anti-European terrorist organisation.

The measures, designed to strengthen the government's hand against subversive activities, include control of newspapers and other organisations, restrictions on the movements of Mau Mau members and a system of registration of societies with more than ten members.

Police were today investigating the death of a village chieftain found with his head almost severed from his body by axes in the Nyeri district.

He is the third headman to die in this district in the past few days following a death sentence by the Mau Mau.

WITNESS KILLED

One of the men was shot dead in his hut and the second was dragged from his bed to have his head chopped off with double-edged swords.

In the Thiong'os Falls district, 70 miles from Nairobi, an African witness in a case against terrorists has also been found murdered. He had been missing since September 9. Six arrests have been made in this district.

A secret meeting on the eve of the slaughter of cattle on European farms was described by a witness today at the trial of 42 Africans, accused of taking part in the raid.

The witness, an African foreman, said it was clear that the idea of the meeting was to organise widespread destruction of European property.

Other witnesses said Africans working on the farms had taken part in the killings.—Reuters.

Gunman Shoots Postmaster

GLASGOW, Oct. 1. A gunman shot a postmaster this afternoon, raced out of the post office and joined a train queue, grabbing a 65-year-old woman to shield him from pursuing police.

The police later arrested him. They were searching tonight for another man to whom the gunman is believed to have given the proceeds of the post office holdup.

The postmaster who tackled this assailant, with a street sweeper's broom was injured in a knee. About five shots were fired. — Reuters.

Labour Party Conference Avoiads Making Decision On Korea Resolution

MORECAMBE, Oct. 1. The annual conference of the British Labour Party today avoided taking a vote on a resolution calling for India's good offices to try to end the Korean truce deadlock.

A resolution from the Northampton Labour Party urging this course was remitted to the Party executive at the request of the former Colonial Secretary, Mr James Griffiths.

The resolution also condemned the bombing of the Yalu River power plants and the use of the napalm bomb in Korea and urged the admission of the People's Republic of China to the United Nations.

Mr Griffiths told the conference that there was "much" in the resolution with which the executive agreed, but there was "a danger that it would be torn from its context and used to misrepresent them all over the world."

The resolution declared: "This conference views with grave concern the prolongation of the Korean conflict and the deadlock in the peace talks caused by the disagreement on the question of prisoners of war; considers that further use should be made urgently of the good offices of the Indian Government in this connection."

"It condemns the action of the United Nations Command in risking the extension of the war by bombing the Yalu River power station, the support given to this action by the British Government, the use of such inhumane weapons as the napalm bomb, and other unnecessary wholesale destruction, and in the interests of humanity and world peace, urged more effective representation of British views in the United Nations, with a view to securing an immediate ceasefire, the admission to the Security Council of the representatives of the Chinese People's Government, the ending of the provocation offered to that government by the presence and activities of Chiang Kai-shek in Formosa, and the rehabilitation of the devastated land of Korea."

Mr James Hudson, a Member of Parliament, speaking in a debate on foreign affairs, said the group's creed: "War is quite inevitable if the rearmament race continues unchecked."

World rearmament dominated economics. Only Russia and the United States could rearm and still maintain and increase their living standards.

"I think the danger is the hysterical fear in Washington and the Kremlin which is driving both sides to rearm."

During today's debate, Bevan's views on the United States from which he seeks "independence" constantly cropped up. The 54-year-old ex-Minister is leading a drive within the party for more Left-wing Socialism. But the trade unions are opposed to him, who gets most of his support from members of local party groups.

Mr Denis Healey, Member of Parliament and formerly the Party's International Secretary, attacked the Bevan group for criticising America while insisting they wanted friendship with her.

Bevan thinks the best way to win friends and influence people is to kick them in the teeth," Healey said. "Even in the country of Humphrey Bogart and James Cagney they do not understand that kind of love-making."

The disruption following Bevan's victory threatened to dominate every other issue on the agenda of the conference. Attic men are apparently determined on a showdown with the rebel Bevans.

Recalling Labour's hopes for international unity after 1945, he said: "The central reason why our hopes have been disappointed is because the Soviet Union have not co-operated

Acheson Is Adamant

WON'T HAVE UK IN ANZUS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1. Mr Dean Acheson, US Secretary of State, made plain at a news conference today that he continues to oppose direct British participation in ANZUS (Australia, New Zealand and US) defence planning in the Pacific. Exclusion of Britain from the recent Honolulu ANZUS conference brought protests from some British circles.

Mr Acheson said Britain and all other interested friendly powers will be kept abreast of developments in this field.

He noted that at the first ANZUS conference last summer it was decided that it would be premature to either broaden this alliance or to permit formal participation in strategy talks by other interested nations.

Mr Acheson discussed ANZUS after a reporter had asked whether Britain had formally requested direct participation in ANZUS defence planning and been denied it by the United States.

MIDDLE EAST

Turning to Middle East defence, Mr Acheson said American and British views are now quite similar.

He did not elaborate but in the past Britain has been reported urging quick establishment of a Middle East defence arrangement and inviting Arab nations to join in.

The United States had favoured bringing in the Arab nations at the start.

Mr Acheson said the United States had replied formally to the British proposal but did not disclose what the reply was. He did say, however, that both the United States and Britain agreed that it is highly important that Arab countries should be fully consulted in steps aimed at setting up a Middle East organisation.

Mr Acheson added that it does not look now as if this proposed organisation will crystallise in the immediate future.—Associated Press.

Bonn, Oct. 1. Herr Hans Joachim Von Der Esch, West German Minister to Syria, left today a fortnight ahead of time for Damascus as the first German envoy to an Arab State.

Usually reliable sources said he had been ordered to leave now instead of in a fortnight as planned to help counteract the deterioration of West German-Arab relations caused by West Germany's compensation agreement with Israel.

The Government is accelerating plans to send envoys to other Arab States, including Egypt and Iraq. The Minister to Iraq will also be accredited to Jordan.

The future Ambassador to Egypt, Herr Gunther Pawelke, will be accredited to the King of Egypt and the Sudan, though it will be made known that this formula has no political significance, the sources said.—Reuter.

ACHESON ISSUES DENIAL

No American Plan Drawn Up For Ending Korea War

Washington, Oct. 1. The United States Secretary of State, Mr. Dean Acheson, told his weekly Press conference today that any rumours that the United States had decided to produce any new plan for ending the Korean War at the United Nations General Assembly were untrue.

Mr. Acheson had been asked to comment on a newspaper report that the United States had drawn up a resolution asking the General Assembly to call on the Communists and North Koreans to end the war in Korea on the basis of the truce terms recently submitted by the United Nations delegates at Panmunjom.

He said: "We are continuing through our military representatives in Korea the negotiations for an armistice and we are all familiar with what has been done in the last few days.

"Whether there will be an armistice or not I cannot tell and no one can except the people on the other side (the Communists), and I take it they will not do so until the next meeting."

Mr. Acheson said that what happened at the negotiations in Korea would affect what happens at the General Assembly.

"We have been exploring the situation with a great many delegations to work out our stand on various contingencies. Nothing has been firm up."

NOT CORRECT

Mr. Acheson thought this exploration had given rise to the rumour about a new United States proposal.

Answering further questions, he said it would not be helpful to try to speculate on any decisions concerning a Korean armistice which might be made by the Communists.

The Allies would have to meet the situation as it developed.

When a correspondent asked Mr. Acheson if his statement constituted a denial that the reported United States resolution existed, Mr. Acheson said:

"Any report that we had crystallised our position, or come to a conclusion as to what should be done was not correct."—Reuter.

Something New In Strikes

Bonn, Oct. 1. Five hundred boys and girls, aged between 16 and 14 years, went on a seven-day "school strike" on orders of their parents today, to protest against the activities of prostitutes in the immediate surroundings of their school.

The children's school is the Stifts Schule on Bonn's Theaterstrasse in the heart of the town, which was largely destroyed by air raids.

City officials said that between 50 and 100 prostitutes have set up their "headquarters" in these ruins. A new drive against the prostitutes is being made now with police support. All ruins around the school will be leveled, including all cellars.—Reuter.

The President declared newspapers which used their freedom to dig out and print the truth were providing a vital service to Democracy.

Mr. Stevenson balled the wide variety of viewpoints in the American Press as a sign of strength.

Mr. Eisenhower gave a promise that he would resist any efforts to impose measures of censorship on the Press.

Both parties were steering clear of making an election issue of a statement by the head of the Central Intelligence Agency, General Walter Bedell Smith, that he assumed there were Communists in his department.

Some individual Republican politicians were quick to make the statement a campaign issue, but the parties did not dare take it up.

Huge crowds gathered at every stop Mr. Eisenhower made later in Michigan.

In a speech at Flint, he said: "Times like these demand that we present a united front to the outside world. We must not encourage our potential enemies by showing that Americans are so divided that they cannot take decisive action in an emergency."—Reuter.

Australia
Designs
Own Jets

Melbourne, Oct. 1. Australia has designed its own faster-than-sound jet aircraft.

This has been announced by the Chief of Air Staff, Sir Donald Hardman, who said that overseas experts who had inspected the design declared it extremely good.

The plane, which has two-jet engines and a swept back wing, was designed by the Commonwealth Aeronautics Research Laboratories at Fisherman's Bend, Melbourne.

Sir Donald Hardman said: "Its cost will largely determine whether or not the plane will be put into production in Australia". He added that in any event the work done would keep local designers fully up to date on supersonic jet aircraft design.

He said also that for the next two to five years the R.A.A.F. would have an front-line aircraft the Canberra jet bomber, and an improved version of the American Sabre jet fighter, both manufactured entirely in Australia. The prototype Australian Sabre is due for flight next March and the first Canberra two months later.

Plans have been completed for 100 giant jet aircrafts, including fields at Darwin, Townsville, Amberley, Perth, Adelaide and Williamtown, New South Wales.

REFUSED VISA BY AMERICA

London, Oct. 1. The Rev. Michael Scott, a champion of the rights of African peoples, has so far been unable to get a visa from the U.S. Embassy in London to attend the United Nations General Assembly, opening in New York on October 14, as the "accredited representative" of the International League for the Rights of Man."

He told a press conference that he applied for a visa on July 30, 1952, and in a subsequent interview with the United States Vice-Consul had declined to take the oath which was prescribed under the provisions of the United States Internal Security Act of 1950.

Mr Scott said that according to the oath, a person had to "solemnly swear that I am not a member, nor have I ever been a member, of the Communist, Nazi, Fascist, Falange or any other totalitarian party or any other totalitarian party or any section, branch, subsidiary, affiliate or sub-division of such party in any country. Furthermore I have never been affiliated with any such organisation. I clearly understand that under the provisions of the Internal Security Act of 1950, I am inadmissible to the United States if I have been in any way affiliated with any Communist, Nazi, Fascist, Falange or totalitarian organisation."

He added: "I am not a Communist, but I cannot undertake to give an oath a full and truthful statement on all these questions which, having regard to all their moral and legal implications can hardly be considered fair questions. I am prepared to give any undertaking regarding my movements and activities while in the United States, which the authorities may consider necessary for security reasons to cover the activities or expressions of opinion of those attending the United Nations during their stay or, transit through American territory."

A PRINCIPLE

"It seems to me that there is an important question of principle involved in this matter. I understand that the treaty regarding the situation of the United Nations headquarters in the United States makes a provision for the free access to the United Nations of those having accreditation to it," he said.

Mr Scott said that he had taken up the matter with the Secretary-General of the United Nations and added that if the procedure suggested were enforced, it would amount to a "screening process" by United States authorities on those attending the United Nations as representatives of non-governmental organisations from other countries, and a consequent limitation on the freedom of the functioning of the United Nations."

Officials of the United States Embassy in London declined to comment on Mr Scott's observations, beyond stating: "It is a private matter between the American Consul-General in London and Mr Scott." — Reuters.

Peking Regime's New Propaganda Campaign Opens

London, Oct. 1.

The Communist-sponsored "Peace Congress of Asia and the Pacific", opening tomorrow in Peking, starts another gigantic Communist propaganda campaign against Japan and Western influence in Asia.

According to official Chinese Communist sources, the more than 500 "delegates" to the Congress will "represent" 32 countries.

They include most of the Asiatic nations, the United States, Australia, Canada, New Zealand, Mexico, Guatemala, Colombia, El Salvador, Honduras, Chile, Peru and Panama.

The aims of the Congress were officially stated recently by Kuo Mo-jo, leader of the "peace" movement in China, in an interview given to the correspondent of the Moscow Pravda.

He said: "Delegates from all Asiatic countries and Pacific regions which have experienced Japanese aggression will have the opportunity to exchange opinions and share a common desire to prevent Japanese militarism from reviving."

The Government—Peking People's Daily said yesterday that the congress would demand "restoration of peace in Korea and withdrawal of American troops from Korea."

Preparations for the congress started in June, when a conference assembled in Peking to plan its organisation. For the next three months, "peace patriots" in many countries were busy making propaganda for the congress and getting together local "peace conferences" to choose delegates.

MOSCOW BACKING

Although the Peking congress seems to be mainly a Chinese affair, Moscow has given it its full backing.

The Moscow Government newspaper, Izvestia, devoted a two-column editorial to the congress and called it the "first assembly in the history of Asia which will represent the interests of the Asiatic peoples, united against the imperialists."

The newspaper claimed that the "peace movement had grown enormously since the start of preparations to the congress in June", and that delegates to the congress had been elected from all classes and represented 600,000,000 people—that is, two-thirds of all mankind".

It claimed that the United States and other Western powers had formed an "imperialist conspiracy" against the independence of the Asiatic peoples and were getting ready to use the Japanese army against "China and other Asiatic peace-loving countries".

It added that the "American and other imperialists", frightened by the congress, had attempted to prevent it by refusing passports to delegates. — United Press.

NIGHTLIFE CRUISE

New York

FOR a British Christmas at sea with Broadway trimmings, wealthy Americans are going to pay a top price of £70 a day.

That is the cost of cruising in the best suites on the main deck of the liner Caronia to the West Indies and South America for 12 days during the holidays. Prices scale down to £3 a day on B deck for a lower or upper berth with no bath.

And the ship is already "a sell-out."

The cruise promises gay nightlife "paced by a talented array of Broadway entertainers."

IT WAS an Engineers' occasion. Major General George Tuck, Engineer-in-Chief of the British War Office, called on Lieutenant General Lewis Pick, U.S. chief of army engineers, and presented him with a plaque "for bringing of information" between the two armies.

The plaque lists outstanding British military engineers up to the American Declaration of Independence in 1776.

A good and bad taste on TV, Congressman O'Hara, one of the investigators, announced that he has stopped drinking a certain brand of beer. He said he watches prizefights on TV, and these are interrupted many times to sing the praises of this beer. That irritated O'Hara, and he switched to a rival brew.

COLUMNIST Robert Ruark says of Chaplin: "Unless they found him setting fire to the White House or heading the cell which handles the theft of an atom bomb, persecution of him at this late date does us more harm than good with our little friends across the Iron Curtain. Little Peter Pan . . . isn't worthy of putting us all in an uproar. He's a silly little man. Let him go continue."

POLICE in Greenville, South Carolina, wondered why drunks took so long to sober up in the town jail. The mystery was explained when Captain Jesse James McKinney was found guilty of selling bootleg liquor to the prisoners.

PRESIDENT TRUMAN called on an art dealer the other day, looked at 150 paintings, and bought one for his home in Independence, Missouri. It was a picture of an old Dutch castle. The dealer did not know the artist's name. Said the President: "You have too many pictures here."

THE ISSUE of allowing British actors to work on Broadway will be put to a vote by the U.S. actors' union—Equity. Meanwhile, the true conflict continues until New Year's Eve.

ONE YEAR LATE, New Yorkers at last are getting a peek at The Festival of Britain film, "The Magic Box," you remember, starred Robert Donat and William Fries-Greene, inventor of an early camera projector.

Critics say the picture is a beauty. But they warn the customers not to be fooled into thinking Fries-Greene was a real rival of America's Thomas Edison. Fries-Greene's work, says the New York Times, "was earnest but vain."

POLITICIANS who seek to draw the analogy of the Press or the platform have failed to study the basic technique and the basic economics of their subject.

We all know that the B.B.C. has its faults. But no other broadcasting network has the prestige or authority of our own.

Politicians and others who seek to dismantle this edifice or tamper with its integrity are bent on dissipating a priceless national asset.

For a long time he stood fast against this pressure, and at last saved the existence of the programmes, which was threatened.

More recently, however, secret agreements with the Whips have considerably curtailed the freedom of the B.B.C. to choose its own broadcasting talent.

The freedom and independence of British broadcasting depends upon the maintenance of the power and authority of the B.B.C. under a fearless Director-General supported by an unprejudiced board of governors.

The extent to which the blue crystals went pink was a measure of the clamminess of the soldier's hand as the minutes before the explosion ticked away.

After watching pigeons and sparrows fly blindfold, scientists claim that the eyes have it.

Blindfold birds seem to be unable to detect wind direction.

Birds watch the ground carefully as they alight. If the earth seems to move towards them too rapidly, they realize the wind is behind, and make a sharp turn.

PROGRESS

DEATHS from rheumatic fever, the commonest cause of voluntary heart disease in children, have been halved in the last ten years, doctors announced. And there is hope for further reduction of the scourge.

By charlring the lowest thermometer records for every night during the last five years in North Wales, Henshaw found an astonishingly constant connection between temperature and the moon's phases.

Believing this might be a local effect, he obtained temperature records from observatories in America, India, Australia, Africa, and Canada. In all these records the mercury plummeted round about the time of full moon.

So an "extra blanket" on the bed during the week when the moon is full may be a worthwhile winter precaution.

When the B.B.C. was at last able to break through the sound barrier imposed by the completed ban on all political controversy, it succeeded in organising unscripted political discussions of different kinds, which have become one of the most popular features not only of the Third and Home but also of the Light and Television programmes.

Quite apart from the vexed question of sponsored broadcasting, the relations between the corporation and the Government, and between the corporation and the two political parties are never easy.

So enormous are the repercussions of broadcasting on every aspect of political life

CHARLIE SUET, speaking at Uttoxeter yesterday, outlined his scheme for dealing with the weekly disappearance of 43,728,084 eggs in shell. He advocated the setting-up of collecting stations for laying birds, so that the birds could be brought to these centres.

Their eggs would then be laid on the land and the transport of eggs from farm to collecting station would be done away with. After laying the birds would be sent to the farms. Each farm would have a collecting station within easy reach. Eggs laid in transit would be dealt with in mobile stations until last vans, and each attached to the nearest collecting and stamping centre.

Since the king of hearts hadn't actually dropped, South made his next try—by leading out the ace of diamonds to draw a low club from the dummy. In the hand of the dummy, 3-2, the contract would now be virtually ice cold.

YOUR BIRTHDAY... By STELLA

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 2

BORN today, you have one of those sweet, harmonious natures that see the good and beauty in everything rather than the bad. Yet your eyes are not closed to the unhappiness of those less fortunate than yourself. You are in your prime to do your best to help. You are the type to go through life with a host of friends. You don't know how to make enemies, but you do know how to handle them. You are always ready with the plucking word or the pleasant gesture that will save a misunderstanding from becoming an open quarrel. You would do well in diplomacy.

Yet, underneath this conciliatory nature, there is a firmness of will and an excellent sense of humour. You have an inspirational nature and your ideas are apt to influence your own generation as well as those who are to come. Your calm dignity makes others look up to you. You have a genius for leadership. In other words, people instinctively follow your example and before you know it you're a leader! If you should enter public life, you could become a great power for good, and your influence used in public life, is your excellent memory.

You can put faces and names together with incredible accuracy.

Strangely enough, while all these other characteristics are there, there is an impulsive in your nature which comes out unexpectedly. You sometimes act seemingly without thought. But if you analyse what you are doing, you will find that you are following that inner "hunch" — otherwise known as intuition. And this is usually just the right thing to do. Too! Rather romantic, you are indeed, but your heart is in the right place, which should content you greatly.

To find what the stars have in store for tomorrow, select your birthday star and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 3

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)—You're not living in a vacuum! Get in touch with the world around you. It may influence your own life.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)—Look ahead to the future. Make your plans with the long view in mind if you want the best possible results.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22)—It will be best for you to stick fairly closely to your regular routine work just now.

Questionable Play Works Out Great

BY OSWALD JACOBY

SOUTH'S decision to bid six spades in today's hand was somewhat questionable, but it worked out pretty well for him. He knew that his partner was very conservative, and therefore suspected that the dummy would be better than the bidding theoretically indicated.

West opened the deuce of clubs and South won. The question now was whether to set up the South hand or the North hand.

The "automatic" play is to draw two rounds of trumps, gulping slightly when West shows out on the second round. The 4-2 break in the dummy produced a biggulp and a minus score.

South didn't play the hand so quickly. After winning the first trick with the ace of clubs he laid down the ace of hearts and entered dummy's wife. The dummy was a king of clubs, and the king of hearts had dropped, the contract would have been very easy.

Since the king of hearts hadn't actually dropped, South made his next try—by leading out the ace of diamonds to draw a low club from the dummy. In the hand of the dummy, 3-2, the contract would now be virtually ice cold.

As it happened, East ruffed the ace of diamonds and returned a trump, but South still had another trump to draw. He then trumped with the ace, entered dummy with the king of clubs, and ruffed dummy's last heart. Since both opponents followed on the fourth round, South got away with this ruff.

Now, South could ruff a club in dummy and draw another trump with the king and the queen. The plan was thus made even though the trumps were 4-1 and the diamonds 4-2.

A—Bid two hearts. This shows a strong suit and a good hand. If he has proper strength, if he has a strong heart suit, if he has overcalled without first bidding, he would have bid two spades, not a strong suit you would either pass one spade or raise spades.

MRS CHU CHUN-CHIU REGAINS A TITLE SHE LAST HELD IN 1939

By "ARGONAUT"

Mrs Chiu Chun-chieu, four times co-winner of the Colony Ladies' Doubles tennis title as far back as 1936, 1937, 1938 and 1939, successfully collected another title yesterday at the Ladies' Recreation Club when she and Mrs Violet Fowler defeated Mrs Mary Chow and Miss Ulian Kho in the final of the Colony Ladies' Doubles Championship by 6-2 and 6-4.

Although the most successful pair in the Ladies' "B" League just recently concluded, Mrs Chiu and Mrs Fowler were before the match generally conceded little chance of toppling their top ranking "A" opponents.

General opinion seemed to be proved in the opening game when Violet Fowler served to a love-4 deficit and concluded it with a double-fault.

The second game, however, saw the long-standing Fowler-Chiu combination settling down into their rock-like steady game of returning every shot with clever placements of drops, lobs and chop shots to force their opponents into a series of errors from which they never recovered.

Mrs Chiu played a great game during these initial stages, and not only resisted the constant stream of shots that were directed at her, but countered them with point-winning deceptive chip shots and overhead smashes. Ulian Kho at 30-40 also served a double fault to let her opponents even the score at 1-1. At a similar count in the third game, Mrs Chiu completed the hat trick with the third successive double-fault to let her opponents lead again at 2-1.

Mary Chow netted the lobes over her partner's head three times in succession on her service and the score was soon again level at 2-2.

Violet Fowler, aided by two errors from Ulian, and one from Mary Chow, served through a love-game, and she and her partner went on to a 4-2 lead by breaking through Ulian's next service game also at love.

The losers made a strong stand in the next game on Mrs Chiu's service and were leading 40-15, only to see Violet Fowler executing two point-winning strokes to force a deuce and eventually win when Mary Chow smashed into the net and sent wide her backhand return to the service.

The set game, with Mary serving, was the longest in the match, going to six deuces, before Mary Chow double-faulted and smashed out in succession.

ERROR AFTER ERROR

Still plagued by their erratic tendencies, Mary Chow and Ulian Kho found themselves with a 2-0 deficit at the beginning of the second set, this time Ulian making the greater number of errors, mainly in the net volleys.

The Colony Badminton Champion, however, made up with a number of grand backhand volleys in the third game to enable the combination to break through Mrs Chiu's service game and pave the way to their winning the next two games to lead by 3-2.

BROOKLYN DODGERS WIN FIRST GAME OF WORLD SERIES

Brooklyn, New York, Oct. 1.

The Brooklyn Dodgers hit three home runs in their home stadium today to whip the New York Yankees 4-2 in the opening game of the 1952 World Series.

Jackie Robinson, Pee Wee Reese and Duke Snider got homers for the home team as the Dodgers, behind the six-hitter of rookie Joe Black, got the first of the four games needed for the Championship.

Allie Reynolds gave up five hits before he was relieved by Scarborough after giving up his batting turn to a pinch hitter in the eighth inning. They included Jackie Robinson's second inning lead-off home run and the sixth inning home run by Duke Snider, which scored Pee Wee Reese, who had singled earlier.

The game was played in cool, cloudy weather before a cheering crowd of 34,000 Brooklyn fans who crowded into Ebbets Field to watch their favourites take the opening game. The defeat was a bitter one for Allie Reynolds, who won 20 games during the regular season as a starter for the Dodgers. In the season he won 14 games as a relief pitcher.

THE BIG FIGHT

One Horrifying Right... And Joe's Time Ran Out

By PETER WILSON

Philadelphia, Sept. 24.

The borrowed time that Jersey Joe Walcott has been living on for an unadmitted number of years ran out just 44 seconds after the start of the 13th round of the old man's defence of the world's heavyweight title against smashing, bashing, crashing Rocky Marciano at the Municipal Stadium, Philadelphia.

It ran out like sand from an hour-glass which has been smashed by a hammer. It ran out after the hardest, single punch I have ever seen one man land on another since Joe Louis won the same title from Jim Braddock 15 years ago.

It ran out after the best heavyweight title fight for years and years.

It ran out after Jersey Joe had fought the fight of his more than 20-year-old career.

It ran out just where it looked as though Walcott had out-thought, out-maneuvered, and out-stayed the "Iron Kid."

The end—but let's not skip to see if this had a happy ending.

STILL SHAKING

If my hands will stop shaking and my pulse racing, even though it's all been over for four hours, come with me a minute by minute and round by round through this muscle marathon, this ballet of blood, and epic of endurance.

All the trappings were there. The huge, sprawling concrete arena like a shallow grey soup plate. All the supporting cast.

Former champions like Joe Louis, Jim Braddock, and Barney Ross. Current world bosses like Sugar Ray Robinson and Joey Maxim, meeting with a castor-oil smile on the safe side of the ropes.

Stars of stage and screen and radio. Million-dollar girls who looked as though even their lingerie must be mink-trimmed. Men with sculpted bodies and men with quarrified faces.

Gangsters and gentlemen; professors and pugs; guys and dolls—a town of 40,000 residents who had lost individuality and had become an entity anticipating blood and bruises and high courage and the thrill of imminent explosive disaster.

AND HATED

They were not disappointed. There was viciousness in this fight, and maybe even hatred from the old man, the representative of his race, who had cheered at this tough, crude youngster and said that he thought this fight was his softest touch, and that if he lost it he wanted his name to be expunged from the record books for ever.

And it started tough. Two thuggish clinches, and then Walcott landed a hard left to the body, followed by a two-handed battry to the head.

A right had shaken Marciano, and before your fingers could fly over the typewriter keys to note all this, a screaming left hook had dropped Marciano to his knees. "Yes, it's me," you could feel him thinking, "I'm down here, knocked off my feet for the first time in my life, and by that old grandpappy."

And he got up at three, his mouth a gaping red cavern, and this frightening strength of his let him come back swinging left and right at Walcott's head just before the bell.

MASTER... PUPIL

But in the second Walcott made him look foolish, side-stepping and countering at long range and tying him up inside until the swarthy Roman-nosed bulldog his way inside and clubbed a good one with the left to the head.

If was master and pupil again in the third with Walcott letting Rocky throw his stones, which were always out of distance, and proving him inept here.

Three in a row to Walcott, and for good measure he landed a hard right cross after the bell had gone.

Perhaps it was this that got Marciano started. Suddenly he realised his tremendous strength. He absorbed a punch like a rock. He shoved the champion, 12lb. the heavier, backwards.

"No dear, Rocky Marciano is NOT the new 'U.S. President'!"

Walcott had something on his shoulders which was getting in Rocky's eyes.

A feeling voice said: "Sure he's got something on his shoulders. Skin and bone." There was bitterness outside the ring, too.

A right to the jaw stopped Walcott in a neutral corner at the end of the ninth as though he were Lou's wife, and in the tenth Rocky actually out-jabbed him and left him looking old and tired and shrunken.

At the end of that round I made Walcott half a point ahead by British scoring. Under the American system I had curdled it by old Joe saying "four" rounds to him, four to Marciano, and one even.

But the old man was fading like your holiday sunburn.

Walcott's left-cheek was raw beef, in the 11th, and his eye was a red river, when suddenly he came back with his greatest rally since the first round.

Marciano was cut near the right eye. He was badly hurt, and only his great strength kept him going.

Walcott scored with a few jabs, but they were ineffective jabs, and now he was further ahead than he had ever been in the fight.

Russia's Diplomatic Victory Over Red China Will Be Stressed At Party Congress

London, Oct. 1. Russia's diplomatic victory over Communist China, and the resulting strengthening of Moscow's influence in the Far East, have come just in time to be presented to the 19th Party congress as a tangible proof of the Kremlin's power and its firm "leadership" of the Communist bloc, experts said here.

When the Party Secretary, Mr. Georgi Maximilianovich Malenkov, stands up on Sunday, October 5, to make his general report to the Party congress, the Moscow talks are likely to figure prominently in the first part of his speech, which will deal with the Soviet Union's international position.

Mr. Malenkov will also review Russia's economic development and give an official appreciation of the state of the Communist Party of the USSR, the rigidly disciplined organisation which has ruled the Soviet Union for the last 35 years.

Australia's Poor Wheat Harvest

London, Oct. 1. Australia's "poorest wheat harvest for six years" is likely to have serious repercussions, especially in exports to Britain, according to the Corn Trade News.

"For the United Kingdom, the prospect falls little short of tragedy," the influential journal said, adding: "If the open market can solve the problem then let us by all means do something about it."

The Australian crop is officially estimated at between 130,000,000 bushels and 140,000,000 bushels, of which about 80,000,000 bushels will be required for home consumption, leaving about 60,000,000 bushels for export.

The paper commented that the International Wheat Agreement quota for Australia this year of 83,700,000 bushels "is quite out of the question."

It blamed Australian wheat stabilisation plan for the dismal prospect, and suggested that the Canberra Government recognise the mistakes of the plan and avoid continuation of these mistakes for the next five years.

The paper claimed that the greatest mistake had been the basing of the home price on the estimated cost of production, saying "No one can assess that cost in any country."

It said the failure was due to such problems as differing soil characteristics, degrees of mechanisation and family labour, incidence of labour in various districts, and individual skill.—Reuter.

A Passports Mystery

Washington, Oct. 1. The Secretary of State, Mr. Dean Acheson, said at his weekly press conference today that the government was trying to find out if the Americans listed as delegates to the Communist "peace conference" in Peking had violated the United States passport regulations to travel to China.

Noting that since May all United States passports had been stamped as not valid for China, Mr. Acheson said the State Department had heard that certain United States citizens were attending the conference. From reports received about 15 of these Americans had been identified. Some were in China already.

Mr. Acheson said no passports had been issued to people to attend the Peking conference and none had been sought.—Reuter.

Planning For Coronation

London, Oct. 1. Detailed planning for the coronation of Queen Elizabeth II next June, began today in a spacious regency style house in the heart of London.

Among the biggest tasks facing the staff of more than 60, are seat planning and the issue of more than 8,000 invitations.

The detail of the ceremonial will be drawn up on the basis of a centuries old collection of papers, documents and records of previous coronations.

Dress regulations have to be studied and 400 of England's most distinguished men have to be appointed to usher the guests.—Reuter.

Two Of Kenya's Terrorists

These men, standing handcuffed together between two native policemen are members of the Mau Mau whose strength is estimated at 200,000. The anti-European secret society is blamed for much of Kenya's unrest. Members of Mau Mau which has sworn to drive Europeans out of Kenya, are known among the tribes as "the greedy ones" and are feared and hated. Mau Mau often recruits its members with promises of a better life. Imbued with superstition as they are, they dread to break the oath.—London Express.

Yugoslavia Has Role To Play Says Eden

Leamington, Oct. 1. Mr. Anthony Eden, the British Foreign Secretary, said here today that Yugoslavia had a place in the "broad system of Western understanding" which we are building up in Europe."

"Yugoslavia has a great tradition of patriotism and an important geographical position," he told a meeting in his constituency.

He added: "She has recently developed new and closer relations with Austria and has embarked on constructive consultation with Turkey and Greece."

"Only the problem of Trieste obstructs a similar development in Yugoslav relations with Italy. I hope that with realism and goodwill on both sides that obstacle can be overcome."

"Under courageous leadership, the Yugoslav peoples have freed themselves from Cominform control."

"They are determined to keep that freedom."

Mr. Eden said that during his recent visit to Strasbourg for the meetings of the Consultative Assembly of the Council of Europe, he had found "an increasing understanding" of the Party Control Commission.

Mr. Eden said that the new Secretariat is now mostly a democratic Marshal. He supervises the women's anti-aircraft defence organisation and similar matters.—United Press.

EXPLAINS OBJECT

He said that his object was "to make it possible that the various experiments in European co-operation which are now being carried out, are held together in a logical pattern and do not lead to new divisions."

"All are agreed that Europe must be kept together" despite the fact that "some countries on the Continent are going ahead towards new forms of unity" while "others do not feel able to proceed so fast."

Mr. Eden said that for this reason, he had proposed to link the Council of Europe with the Schuman Plan and the European Defence Community.

"It now remains to work out the practical application of this idea," Mr. Eden said.

"We stand in close alliance with our Continental friends... we shall never separate ourselves from them," the Foreign Secretary declared.

Mr. Eden, who visited Vienna last week, paid tribute to the patience and fortitude of the Austrian people.

"They have much to endure, but we must take serious account of the determination of this country to see the People's Republic of Peking occupy its rightful place in the world."—Reuter.

INTELLIGENCE T-87 SOLUTION

On the assumption that A = 1 B = 2 and so on, DICE is 1931. Do Mrs. Memory's children see 21 and 0, or 10 and 1, or 11 and 1?

"In this, we hope to combine the talents and the energies of the British Commonwealth, Europe, and the United States in a common endeavour."

Although tension reigned in Chinatown of Rangoon, other parts of the city remained calm and normal.—France-Presse.

Anglo-US Differences Over Iran

London, Oct. 1. Anglo-American differences are holding up a decision on replying to the "ultimatum" proposals of the Iranian Prime Minister, Dr. Mohammed Mossadegh, for a settlement of the oil dispute and threaten to weaken the joint front in the Truman-Churchill offer of last month, authoritative sources cautioned today.

The differences are over "tactics" and the assessment of the Communist threat in Iran.

In principle the United States and Britain are said to be agreed that Mr. Mossadegh's proposals in their present form are unacceptable. But the United States feels that they should not be turned down flatly because she fears that the explosive situation in the country might lead very shortly to a Communist coup with unforeseen consequences. Britain does not wish to close the door abruptly but also feels that nothing can be won by further opposing Dr. Mossadegh nor does she consider the Communist threat quite so imminent as the Americans do, the sources said.

Britain has also again made it clear that she endorses the declared intention of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company to take all possible steps to protect its interests in any country, including the United States, against the sale of oil from the Company's operation areas in Iran.—United Press.

Living Language

Why we say Athletic "heats".

The preliminary races in an athletic event which attracts a large number of entries are called "heats". They take this name from the violence and ardour with which knights used to throw themselves into the lists at tournaments or jousts. The intense excitement of fighting was called the "heat" of battle, which became the name for any great single effort of will or stamina.

Students Reject "Ike"

New York, Oct. 1.

The student newspaper of Columbia University, whose president, General Eisenhower, is on leave campaigning for the presidency of the United States, today declared its support for the General's Democratic rival, Governor Adlai Stevenson of Illinois.

The General, said the paper, had forsaken the principle for expediency and had shown himself a "plodding orthodox, an unimaginative thinker."

Senator John Sparkman, Democratic vice-presidential nominee, said today that the Republicans were attacking foreign policies which General Dwight Eisenhower "participated in when he was Chief of Staff."

The Senator, campaigning in Central and Northern New York State, told a press conference that "the very things that they point as creating the Korean situation were matters that General Eisenhower himself participated in when he was Chief of Staff."

If agreement is not reached within the next 48 hours, the two Powers might decide to send an interim reply to Dr. Mossadegh which would formally comply with the ultimatum set by him without as yet committing them to a final stand on the proposals.

Officials reiterated here today that Britain will not pay the £40,000,000 which Dr. Mossadegh demands as a prior condition of NATO.

Summarising the Party's policy on foreign affairs, he declared: "We reaffirm our fullest support for the United Nations in all its tasks. For us the Commonwealth takes precedence over all other groups. We affirm our desire to co-operate fully with the countries of Europe. In every way short of joining in federal institutions, in the Middle East we offer our support for the proposals for a defence pact with the Middle East countries as equal partners."

The first meeting of the Party Executive tonight elected Mr. Arthur Greenwood, a slight-winger and Party Treasurer, as its Chairman.

Lord Lansdale, a former Secretary of State for India, told the conference: "If all this talk about standing beside America that we have got to accept the American policy in China, then I say there is no peace in prospect."

"We should make it clear to the new President of the United States, whoever he might be, that we must take serious account of the determination of this country to see the People's Republic of Peking occupy its rightful place in the world."—Reuter.

Transport Strike In Bombay

Bombay, Oct. 1. Truck and taxi transport was halted in Bombay today by a crippling strike ordered by the Motor Transport Operators Association. The operators are protesting against a hike in motor-vehicle taxes by the Bombay government.

The strike tied up 18,000 vehicles and left 50,000 workers idle. Emergency food shipments were moved by army and government trucks.—Associated Press.
